To whom it may concern,

We successfully recruited an Operations Director through the London Office of Michael Page Retail, Hospitality and Leisure.

From taking the initial brief to providing a shortlist of candidates through to negotiating the acceptance of the offer, they were extremely consultative and honest and displayed excellent professionalism and sector knowledge.

Perhaps above all, the consultant we used offered an open and personal service. This was the first time we had used a recruitment agency for a front line operations role and were impressed by their partnership approach. We have since briefed them on further roles and would not hesitate to do so again.

Kind Regards,

Edward Rogers
